Hi, Oscar,

Yesterday I watched the news, and it said Typhoon Megi hit Yi-lan, bringing a lot of rain and strong wind. I called you when I saw the terrible floods on TV. I wondered how you were doing there. And you know what? We haven't had any rain yet here in Tainan. Still, we have a day off today because of Megi. Anyway, please call or write me soon.

Love,

Nora 2016/9/28

Hi, Nora,

I was too busy to answer any calls. The day when Megi arrived, rain poured down just like a waterfall. The water flooded into our living room. I could almost swim in my house! On the streets, there were boats, not cars! So schools were still closed the day after Megi hit and left Yi-lan. However, I wasn't happy because I had to mop floors at home for two days! Yesterday I thought I could walk with my friends to school as we usually do. Boy! I was wrong! The typhoon put a big rock in our way.

It was sunny this morning. When we got to school, we knew at once we would have another busy day cleaning up! I'll find the time to send you some good pictures that I took during this crazy time. The places we visited last week all look different now. "Enjoy" them!

Best,

Oscar 2016/9/30

Kate Hospital was built in 1970. It went through three different stages in its change from 1970 to 2010.

In 1970, the hospital was built on a main road, next to a shopping center. A large space behind the hospital was turned into a car park, while the place behind the shopping center left a farmland.

By 1990, the shopping center had been knocked down to make way for two new hospital buildings, one for children and the other for the elderly. Also, the hospital bought the farmland and built a nursing school on it.

By 2010, the main hospital building had not been changed but the elderly care home needed more space. So the nursing school was made smaller. Finally, the nursing school and car park are both smaller in the end.

36. Which is true about Kate Hospital?
