Siena is an old city in the north of Italy. It began with a few people living on its hills more than 2,900 years ago. Around the year 1100, Siena became an important business center in Italy. In 1472, the first bank of the world showed up in this city. It is still doing business now.

Today Siena is famous for keeping its “old face.” For example, its city walls helped keep the city safe before, and now they are hundreds of years old and look almost the same as before. Also, people can see many old houses at the Piazza del Campo. It is the most important meeting place of the city and does not change much. People still go there to share news, go shopping, or play sports. One more thing to help keep Siena’s old face is that cars cannot enter the city most of the time.

Siena is old, but it is beautifully old. People are welcome to visit this beautiful city and walk into the past.
