Below is what Ruru wrote in her notebook.

Oct. 05

Sports Day is tomorrow. The kids have practiced so hard for a few months. I hope they will win a prize in the game.

Oct. 07

Frankie ran to me and said someone stole his money. I talked to everyone but nobody admitted it. I was so angry that I checked everyone's belongings. I think I know who did this and I have to talk to his parents first.

Oct. 10

I've been too busy with Frankie's case to prepare my lessons. Hope this will come to an end soon!

Oct. 13

Penny and Julia came to visit me with drinks. That's so sweet of the girls! They have become much prettier than when they were in junior high.

Oct. 15

Mrs. Hong called and asked why I had her son stand outside of the classroom for five minutes. Why? Because it's the class rule that everyone has to stand outside for the amount of time they're late to class. Is it that hard to understand?  admit 承認 belongings 攜帶物品 amount 總數

33. What does this mean?
- (A) Sports Day. (B) Mrs. Hong's call.
(C) They money-stolen case. (D) The writing of a lesson plan.
34. What do we know from the reading?
- (A) Ruru went to her kids' Sports Day on Oct.5.
(B) Ruru got a prize because she found out who stole Frankie's money.
(C) Mrs. Hong called Ruru to ask her to wait for her outside.
(D) The girls who visited Ruru brought her drinks.

(35~36)

How to make people panic right away? If you have been paying attention to the news or shopping at supermarkets, you might just come up with the reason why the question is raised here: toilet paper panic.

It is said that the price of the toilet paper will rise soon. The day after the news, the public ran to markets, trying to keep some at home before it was too late. Not before long, people started to share pictures of empty shelves where the toilet paper was. Some even started to line up in front of the empty shelves, waiting to buy more toilet paper. Of course, some people started to make fun of this interesting scene. They think it's not worthy to spend so much time buying toilet paper. After all, nothing is more valuable than time.

However, it's clear that people couldn't live without toilet paper. After all, people have been using them since 1857. At that time, an American Joseph C. Gayetty made the toilet paper that was similar to what we use today. However, the idea started even earlier. Romans used to share a sponge on a stick to clean their butts after using the toilet. Yes! Sharing! Therefore, we should be thankful to Mr. Gayetty. Maybe we couldn't stop the price of the toilet paper from going up one day, but, at least, we are panicking about toilet paper not some sponge sticks.

 panic 恐慌/使...恐慌 valuable 有價值的 similar 相似的 sponge 海綿 butt 屁股

35. Which is true about the article?
- (A) Mr. Gayetty invented today's toilet paper.
 (B) Buying more toilet paper makes people panic.
 (C) Not all the people will try to buy as much toilet paper as they can.
 (D) The price of the toilet paper has been risen after the news was out.
36. Why does the author mention sponge in the paragraph?
- (A) It's an invention made by Joseph C. Gayetty.
 (B) It's something that Romans would use it to clean their butts after they finished using the toilet.
 (C) To tell the readers how Americans used to clean when they finished using the toilet.
 (D) To share an interesting fact that people would use a sponge to clean the toilet after finishing it.

(37~39)

We are all celebrating the glory the Universiade brought us and the medals our excellent athletes earned. However, during this great event, have you noticed other hot news?

The most popular one is the fight between a netizen and the Taipei City Mayor on the Internet. The argument is about a protest happening at the very beginning of the game. Some found it interesting, saying the mayor's comment was the most honest one. But some found it impolite, commenting that a mayor shouldn't say something like that.

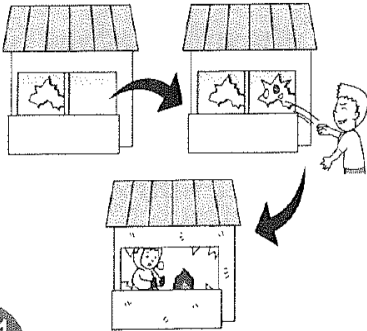

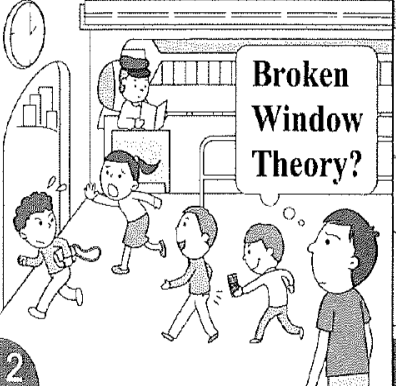

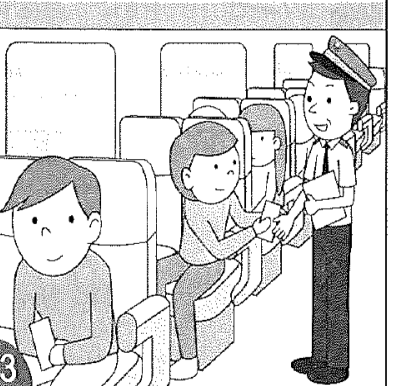

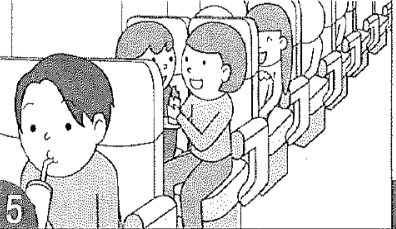

Another one is around the topic of Athletes' village, where the international athletes stayed during the event. The government said setting the village at a suburbia in New Taipei City is more convenient for athletes to travel from game to game across Hsinchu and Taipei. The athletes seem to be satisfied with the stay, while the neighbors are not the case. They couldn't stand the loud noise the athletes made almost every night.

There are more stories behind this great event, but nothing can stop Taiwanese people from admiring the great athletes. It can be sure that Universiade 2017 in Taipei will always be a beautiful memory for Taiwan.

📖 glory 榮耀 Universiade 世界大學運動會 medal 獎牌 netizen 網路鄉民 comment 評論
 mayor 市長 protest 抗議 suburbia 郊區 admire 欣賞

 (C) Taiwanese athletes were not doing well during the game.
 (D) They were arguing over a protest.
38. What does they mean in the third paragraph?
- (A) The government. (B) People who live around the Athletes' village.
 (C) International athletes. (D) Netizens.
39. Whose attitude is more likely similar to the writer?
- (A) Kuo: We don't know when we will hold an international event like this, but this Universiade is definitely something to remember. 📖 definitely 明確地
 (B) Jason: A mayor shouldn't have a fight with a netizen. This totally spoiled the joy from the Universiade. 📖 spoil 破壞
 (C) Mrs. Ma: As a neighbor, I was a little helpless when I complained the loud noise from athlete's village because they all just wanted to wait until the game was over. This international game didn't bring me any good memory at all.
 (D) Steve: After watching the whole game, I think the athletes were not as good as we had expected, especially the baseball team. I'm very disappointed at them.
