Gifts for the Poor

Buy a goat to donate to a poor family...from a vending machine? Now, donating is popular in New York, London and Manila, thanks to an idea from NY Company.

Here is the company's idea: They took away the snacks and then put in boxes. The vending machines sell boxes with prices from two to two hundred dollars, showing the needs of poor families in every country.

Looking for something to donate? You can choose anything from a toy car ($2) to a cow ($180). With your help, a family won't need to worry about food and kids will get a toy. You can also choose jeans, jackets, bags, belts, basketballs, desks, or a city map.

Here is how to use the vending machine:

Choose a box, pay with a credit card and the "gift" comes out. You won't see the real thing because there is only a picture of your gift. But don't worry, they will get the gift soon after you pay.

And with prices starting at two dollars, anybody can give.

Last month, Yellow Vest protests made trouble in Paris. They protested about their government's fuel tax. Ten people died because of fighting with the police.

The protests began on 17 November 2018. It attracted over 300,000 people from across France. Protesters blocked the roads. Because of this, people in Paris couldn't go to work or school. On 24 November, there was Act II. The protests attracted over 106,000 people all across France. The protests turned terrible. On 1 December, there was Act III. Yellow Vests stopped airplanes from flying at Nantes Atlantique Airport, many people couldn't catch their planes.

Now thousands of men and women in France are preparing to wear yellow vests to show how angry they are. But people in Paris are worried about their shops and houses. Some bad protesters broke the windows of shops and took money and things away. It's hard to tell who are the protesters and who are not. People can only watch video from their security cameras to find out what happened to their shops and houses. This makes them very scared and worried.

Why did people choose to wear yellow vests to protest in Paris? Well, the color catches people's eyes. Also, it's not difficult for people to get a yellow vest. Drivers in France need to prepare a yellow vest in their car. The rule started in 2008. If a person's car breaks down, they can wear it to tell other people to stay away.

In different countries, people use different things and colors to show their protests. How about your country? Do you use yellow vests, too? Please write something about it to David, a reporter at TTC News. We want to share your story with people all over the world.
